General Art Club Policies

By enrolling into a class, camp or event with Art club, you agree to the following:

Kindness & Respect

Our goal is to foster a positive learning environment filled with creativity and acceptance for both our students and parents. You and your child agree to treat all participants with kindness and respect. If a student is consistently not following directions, being disruptive and doing things that could cause harm to themselves or other children, Art Club reserves the right to remove them from the class. In this instance, you may be required to retrieve your child from the studio before the end of the scheduled day, and payments will not be refunded.

Sometimes we get messy

We love to have fun and get messy! You will ensure your child is properly dressed for Art Club - that means wearing clothing that is ok to get dirty. "Dress for a mess!" We have some aprons available at the studio.

We respect our materials

We use a range of materials to give children a wide creative and sensory art experience, including but not limited to: paint, slime, glue, chalk, glue guns, hammers, nails and other sharp objects. While we do our best to monitor every child's use of these materials, accidents may occur from time to time due to the inherent risk in using these materials. You understand that these materials are not meant for consumption and will instruct your child not to consume any materials and to always conduct themselves in a safe manner.

Safety first

The safety of your child and other children is our top priority. We have a no running rule at the studio. You will ensure your child wears appropriate footwear (no crocs or sandals) and your child agrees to not put themselves or others at risk while playing or taking part in workshops. The studio is located upstairs, please accompany your child to the classroom.

Permission to share

We love promoting process-based art and sharing it with others. We may take photographs, video and/or audio during our classes to post on our social media. You grant us permission to use your child's image, without any restriction and waive your right to inspect or approve the media.

Permission to participate

You give your permission for your child to participate in Art Club programs. You release and hold Art Club harmless from any and all liability that may arise in connection with the studio's art programs.
